

It's up to each individual/set of parents to decide what's right for them/their family--but only them/their family. What they may find unacceptable I may find engrossing--or vice versa. There is a power switch on televisions.